

NEWS LETTER NO 13

UPDATE 27/06/2013 Dorset/Devon boarder

Charmouth and Lyme Regis are 2 villages on the durasic coast, both pretty and nice places.

We are staying on a private site affiliated to the caravan club. It is also registered with A.C.S.I. Which is a Dutch company, who monitor sites through out Europe. One thing they do is for a fee of £13.50 you can get a discount card. All sites in the scheme offer a out of peak season fixed price of !6 Euro a night.

This is a 5* site with indoor pool, we are on hard standing, with electric, water, and a waste There is a great laundry facity, good speed wi-fi and a well designed drive over drain for motor homes. All this for £13.83 with a A.C.S.I. Card. Booked through the caravan club it would have been £21.50 This more than pays for the joining fee. This is the first time we have used it in the U.K. But we have used it a lot all over Europe.

UPDATE 30/6/2013 Devon

Peco is a model railway accessory maker (I always thought of it as being a European company). But it's not, it started in 1946 and still is in the small Devon coastal village of Beer. Over the years the factory has expanded and they have turned the whole site into Pecorama which is a railway based theme park, with train rides, play areas, fantastic gardens, restaurants, pullman cafe, great model layouts and a fantastic shop.
