Update 4/9/2015 Wet West Country

An exhilarating morning at the office.

The A 39 trunk road from Minehead to Barnstable is the steepest A road in England, also it is so narrow my wing mirror was clipping the hedge while my outside wheels were clunking over the cats eyes. Then there is Porlock Hill we lost traction on one steep hair pin until the traction control cut in, SCARRY

A bad afternoon at the office.

We finally got to the site at Blackmoor gate, 27miles in one and a half hours. We were given a wet grass pitch, we told the farmer it was too wet and we would sink. He said it is solid and very hard just surface water. We sank, there was no hard standing pitches free till the next day, so we had to jack it up and put boards under the wheels till the next day when he dragged us out with his 4x4. The pic is of what we used to get it out of the mud some mine the trolley jack and wood are the farmers.

Hardy Campers.

I walked past the barn on this site in the rain, there is a sink screwed to the wall with a cold tap. There were 3 young woman washing dishes. 2 had champagne flutes half full the other a pint of Guinness.

It was 4.30 the British are a hardy breed

Quote of the day.

"It's a really nice toilet emptying point here"

(that's so sad)

Good places to visit

Combe Martin

Ilfracombe

Barnstable

Happiness is

Sat outside the camper after a good day out in Bude with a glass of wine in one hand a cigar in the other. Sitting looking at a view. (life does not get much better, this was my view)

An afternoon nap with my old mate in Boscastle.

2 of our favourite places, Boscastle.

Tintagel and its so called castle.

Plymouth

Is a favourite place from Wendy's younger days.

lunch overlooking the sound.

The Hoe

Food

We had a good choice of supermarkets in Plymouth after a visit to Lidl, Aldi, and Sainsburys the fridge was very full.

We do live well.

2 of wendys pics of an unusual sunset.
